EX HACIENDA DE CHAUTLA, LAVANDER FIELDS AND VAL QUIRICO

Ex hacienda de Chautla is a large farmhouse with a castle-style mansion, it has a space with extensive English style gardens with wooded trails, a chapel, a museum, and a kitchen made of Talavera ceramics, in which it may seem like traveling through time and see how it worked this fiefdom which had its own prison and the first power plant of the American Continent.

Rancho San Martín is a place dedicated to the production and elaboration of lavender products. Val Quirico is a unique community, where peace and fun, residential, touristic, and commercial lifestyles coexist. A place inspired by the Italian Toscana.
